

ISO 26000:2010 Guidance on social responsibility

Social responsibility foundation training

Course overview

- The ISO 26000 Standard was introduced to promote sustainable development by providing guidance which organisations can follow to promote engagement in socially responsible behaviours. Global organisations are being inspired to build their social responsibility strategies on ISO 26000.
- The training will help participants understand the fundamental purpose of ISO 26000 and explain the content and the interrelationships between the guidance, local industry practice and the relevant legislative framework. The training will also highlight the importance of results and improvements in organisational behaviour on social responsibility.

This course is for:

- Organisations wishing to take their social responsibility seriously and implemented effective methods of control and improvement
- Personnel who need to have an understanding of social responsibility as defined in ISO 26000
- Management system consultants

This course covers:

- Understanding social responsibility
- Principles of social responsibility
- Engaging stakeholders
- Organisational governance
- The 7 core subjects
- Integrating social responsibility

Course duration:

- 3 days
- plus pre-course work and post-course examination

Training format:

- Interactive
- Online virtual

What to expect

why you should use Atlas Certification...

Our trainers are also field auditors so that they can share operational and real-life experiences during the training course.

This is an online virtual training course which includes live training presentation and facilitation as well as delegate participation throughout.

We strive to continually improve the quality of our training courses by always reacting positively to delegate feedback.

It is important that we provide accessible learning at competitive prices.

To find out more and to make a booking, visit: www.atlascertification.com